Avira Software Updater is a free tool to check for available updates and automatic downloads of the newest versions of software you have installed. Key Features: •Automatic scanning of programs: Find updates and new versions of software you have installed and download them automatically. •Automatic detection of software: Avira Software Updater automatically detects installed software, so that it's possible to check for updates and obtain the newest version. •Easy to use: The program has an elegant interface and is easy to use. •Compatible with Windows 10: Avira Software Updater is compatible with Windows 10. Unmanaged Windows servers (such as servers for web, application, or backup services) are usually configured with a static IP address that is hard to change. With Avira AntiVirus for Servers, you can use a dynamic IP to identify which IP address has been assigned to your server. Configure Avira AntiVirus for Servers on the management console of your server. Choose the option "Generate a new IP" to create a new dynamic IP address, or choose the option "Use an existing IP" to use the IP address of your management console. Connect to your server with a remote connection, using the IP address you've assigned to your server. You can specify the time interval (in hours) to use the dynamic IP address for the server. In case you've configured the dynamic IP, then this time interval doesn't apply. Avira AntiVirus for Servers With Avira AntiVirus for Servers, your servers will be protected from harmful programs. The utility provides several useful features, such as scanning your servers for malware, continuously searching for updates, and automatically downloading them. Using the Dynamic IP feature of the utility, it is possible to quickly identify the IP address of the server. You can also choose whether to use the IP address of your management console.
